

The average American spends only 14 hours per week outdoors.

Luckily, that number seems to be increasing! More people have learned to appreciate their outdoor spaces during the Covid-19 pandemic. If you're lucky enough to have a patio or porch, embrace it!

Is your patio due for a pick-me-up? Are you looking for new outdoor décor ideas for your backyard?

Check out designs we love from today's outdoor furniture trends.

Gorgeous Outdoor Furniture Trends

The overall theme for trending outdoor areas is a peaceful escape, woodsy elements, and artful color punches. These designs take inspiration from recent indoor furniture trends and post-quarantine dopamine dressing. These trends aim to create an outdoor space that feels natural, genuine, and like an extension of the home.

Textural Throwbacks

This season, we're seeing a lot of designs harkening back to the 1960s and 1970s. Mid-century modern is still going strong in the interior design world. It's no surprise that these trendy, cozy pieces are making their way outdoors!

Metal, mesh, and woven rattan are seeing a glamorous return in the form of sleek chairs and benches. The more, the merrier when it comes to mixing these textures!

Vibrant Moments

Since the dark days of quarantine, more people have been seeking colorful clothing and home décor to make us smile. Don't be afraid to embrace color in your outdoor decor this season!

Bring your 70s textures into the 21st century with pops of tropical color. Peacock blue, avocado green, and vibrant pink are having a major moment. Throw pillows, planters, and table settings are great places to include color!

Pops of Pattern

Keeping in line with the colorful and textural maximalist theme, patterns are also trending in outdoor furniture and design. This time, however, we're seeing them emerge in some new and funky ways.

Patterned pillows and cushions have been common in outdoor design for many years. This year, try using subtle patterns in unexpected areas, like a tabletop or painted wall. Some folks have even taken to painting their concrete patio!

Spheroidal Shapes

Backyard furniture has stepped away from blocky, heavy designs in favor of more natural, smooth silhouettes. Woven rattan is a perfect example of this trend because rattan furniture typically has smooth, rounded edges.

We also see plenty of pod-like seating and egg chairs, especially in hanging, swinging form. Look for backyard furniture ideas that beckon you to curl up with a good book and hang for hours.

Inside-Out Approach

Let's be honest; we often neglect our outdoor living space. By making the outdoors feel more like home, you and your family are more likely to take advantage of the fresh air!

Outdoor furniture trends are seeing more pieces that feel cozy and room-like. In this trend, patios are treated more like living areas with built-in seating, walls, and shade. Functional tables and lighting are also essential for this trend!

Office En Plein Air

In 2021, over 26% of workers worked remotely from home. An extension of the inside-out trend, home offices are finding bright new spaces outside. If you're a remote worker, you'd be silly not to move your set-up outdoors on a sunny morning!

You'll need a tall, wide desk space or bar, plenty of shade, and lots of potted plants to achieve the perfect outdoor office. Swap your swivel chair for a rattan barstool or sofa, and you're ready to work!

Soak Up the Sun in Style

Give your outdoor living space a makeover this season! Natural textures, funky colors, and comfy nappable pieces are the way to go. These outdoor furniture trends will surely create an outdoor space you never want to leave!

Did you love reading this article? Want to produce your own excellent content for your blog or company website? Check out Article City's other awesome pages!